Remembrance Day – Jour du Souvenir

Le Poème d'un soldat pour ceux tombés au combat

d'Eric MacStravick

Tandis que d'autres parlaient et cédaient à la peur,
Laisant tout derrière nous, nous quittons nos demeures
Pour venir combattre au prix de notre vie et rappeler au monde, en agissant ainsi,
Qu'honneur et courage sont bien plus que des mots;
Ce sont des modes de vie qu'on n'honore jamais trop.

Prenez bien le temps de réfléchir à fond
À tout ce pour quoi nous nous sommes sacrifiés;
Sachez que cette terre où tous nous combattons,
C'est de notre sang que nous l'avons payée.
Aux jours sombres, quand tout semble trop lourd pour vous,
Songez à notre don et souvenez-vous de nous.

Poppy Poppy

Poppy Poppy what do you say?
Wear me on Remembrance Day.

Poppy poppy what do you tell?
Many soldiers in battle fell.

Poppy poppy what should we know?
That peace on earth should Grow, grow, grow.

November – that time of year where we begin to settle in for the long winter months... This could be a perfect time to start a project or hobby; something new and exciting to get our creative juices flowing during those cold winter evenings. If you've always had a love for words and creative composition, you may want to take a ride on the writer's side. November is National Novel Writing Month after all. (The month where people join in on a fun, seat-of-your-pants approach to creative writing; that of writing a 50,000-word novel by November 30th.) Though writing a whole novel may not be quite what we had in mind, we may just fancy trying our hand at a short story, a poem, or something of the kind. So, this winter let's give writing a shot and see if this might just hit the spot...
